

OTHER EXCURSIONS

Encompassing almost 9,000 square miles (roughly the size of Massachusetts), Belize offers a diverse landscape of majestic mountains, lush rainforests and magical archaeological wonders tucked away in perfectly preserved parks and reserves. There are myriad ways to explore this mesmerizing masterpiece of nature and man, one more exhilarating than the next.

Horseback Riding

Sightseeing takes on a different dimension atop a horse. And in Belize, resorts and tour operators can arrange for a horseback riding excursion. All skill levels are accommodated, whether clients prefer cantering across the savanna or meandering through the jungle. The horses also cover ground that might be difficult to navigate on foot. Riding is popular in northern Belize's Blue Creek area and in the Cayo District near the Sittee River on a route that passes great Maya sites.

Zip-Lining

For a true bird's eye view of the rainforest, canopy tours are a great option. Traverse from tree platform to tree platform securely fastened to a steel cable see the sights from a new angle. Zip-line tours are available in wilderness areas throughout Belize.

Golf

A golfer's dream locale, Belize offers several scenic options that will fit your clients to a tee. Imagine sinking a putt on a private island surrounded by the most amazing water hazard: the Caribbean. Or chipping out of a sand trap with an iguana looking on. It's all possible.
